FROM OUR LEADERSHIP

Dear Collegiate Community,

On May 24, Collegiate hosted the 108th commencement ceremony at St. Matthews Baptist Church. The community gathered as 70 seniors received their diplomas and became the newest members of our Alumni Association. I am grateful to our administration, faculty, and staff who helped these students throughout their educational journey at Collegiate.

In a testament to their dedication and hard work, the class of 2024 spent countless hours in the classrooms, on the stage, and on the playing fields. Twenty students began their journey with us in kindergarten, and 14 are part of a proud legacy with parents or grandparents who also attended or graduated from Collegiate. These students, with their applications to 177 colleges and universities, are set to matriculate to 45 different institutions across 23 states and one joining the United States Marine Corps. Their accomplishments fill us with immense pride.

This school year, we celebrated numerous achievements, including two robotics teams qualifying for a world championship competition, countless academic and artist awards, an All 'A' State Championship for our Titans Varsity Soccer team and a Boys tennis singles championship. However, our most significant accomplishment is our continued and unwavering focus on the health and wellness of our students. By fostering a climate and culture where everyone feels they belong, we are not just making Collegiate a great place to learn and grow, but also a place where students can thrive and reach their full potential.

This summer, our faculty and staff are working at our Summer Programs, participating in professional development, and preparing for our Independent Schools Association of the Central States (ISACS) accreditation. Collegiate goes through an accreditation process every seven years. We are also hosting Breakthrough Louisville, a 6-week, no-cost summer school for rising 6th, 7th, 8th, and 9th graders on campus for the fifth year. Our partnership with Breakthrough is a meaningful and deeply valuable one that allows Collegiate to be a private school with a public purpose.

Thank you for being a part of the Collegiate community. I wish you a safe and happy summer! Congratulations to the class of 2024!

With appreciation,

In Memoriam: Coach "Sandy" Taft

September 27, 1943 - February 1, 2024

It is with a heavy heart that we share the news that Alexander T. "Sandy" Taft, Jr., passed away peacefully at his home on February 1, 2024. Coach Taft led the Amazon Crew program for nearly two decades and coached hundreds of Collegiate student-athletes. He often said that coaching and working with our Amazons gave him hope for the future.

As a coach, mentor, and friend, Sandy Taft's influence transcended the sport of rowing, leaving an enduring legacy of resilience, determination, and sportsmanship. His commitment to his athletes, even in the face of adversity, exemplifies the true spirit of Collegiate Athletics and inspires all who had the privilege of knowing him.

Sharing Our Successes in 2023-24

By Clay Gahan, Dean of Faculty

Knowledge, like joy, is best realized when it is shared. This conviction is vibrantly alive at Louisville Collegiate School. Collegiate had 18 faculty members offer workshops on teaching and learning at this year's Kentucky Association of Independent Schools (KAIS) Conference. In the fall, the library team organized a Diversity Read-In Day to promote a diversity of books and themes and enjoy an in-person visit with Kentucky Poet Laureate Crystal Wilkinson. Soon after this visit, the fourth grade built on its dialogue with Ms. Wilkinson and leveraged the upcoming book fair to support reading programs at the Smoketown Wellness Center. Louisville Collegiate School has enjoyed a remarkable school year in 2023-24 for the many opportunities our community members have taken advantage of to connect and strive with others.

The Middle School KUNA delegation won the Outstanding Statesmanship Award--given to the delegation recognized by their peers as having the highest overall contribution to the debate. Our Middle and Upper School robotics teams both won state championships this year, and for the second year in a row, both teams earned the opportunity to travel to Houston for the FIRST World Championship competition and conference. The Upper School had seven students competing at the State Governor's Cup; the Quick Recall team won the district championship; and the Mock Trial team had another top-five finish at the state championship.

On the first day back from spring break, the entire Middle School traveled to Evansville Day School to celebrate and observe the total solar eclipse on their campus that day. Organizing a field trip for an entire division the day after a vacation and getting approximately 250 Middle School students and faculty to work and play with a bunch of students and teachers they had never met was no small feat, but it was worth it, and our students and faculty met the challenge, creating a memorable day of learning. In addition, the eclipse inspired several interdisciplinary efforts. The performing arts department selected the theme of dreams and the moon, and each theater production throughout the season integrated these powerful conceits into its production, beginning with the Upper School's performance of A Midsummer Night's Dream and ending with the fifth-grade Arts Integration Showcase during the final week of classes. In the Lower School, the science teachers worked with teachers throughout the division to take advantage of the eclipse to connect a cool academic idea to real-life observation. These are memorable experiences for our students. We want students' education to be meaningful and enduring. Giving them ample opportunities to share their learning broadly with others is one way to effectively nurture this aim.

A benefit of developing a culture of learning focused on sharing is that it is infectious and self-generating. Years ago, the Upper School rock band's collaboration with the Upper School string ensemble gave both groups a meaningful audience with whom to share their work. This collaboration has led to an Upper School concert for Lower School students on Halloween. This year the Middle School rock band held another concert for the Lower School in the spring. Members of the seventh-grade team used professional development funds to attend a talk by Robin Wall Kimmerer. This excellent talk, and support from the Virginia Perrin Speed Fund, spurred a grade-level-wide reading of Braiding

AROUND COLLEGIATE

Sweetgrass: Indigenous Wisdom, Scientific Knowledge and the Teachings of Plants. The team's shared reading of Kimmerer's book inspired a unit connecting Kentucky's indigenous history with the ecological history of the state. This unit has culminated with an overnight field trip to Mammoth Cave for the second year in a row.

Faculty participation in professional development has increased significantly. The science department took all its members to the National Science Teachers Association national conference last year. This school year, the counseling department and our Junior Kindergarten and Kindergarten teams respectively attended the Collaborative for Academic, Social, and Emotional Learning's Annual SEL Exchange and the National Association for the Education of Young Children's Annual Conference. Lori Trexler, a Kindergarten teacher who attended one of these conferences this fall, was asked to present at the workshop in New Orleans in June. Sharing ideas and being creative breeds more sharing of ideas and more creativity.

Student participation in extracurricular opportunities mirrors this pattern. Athletics saw tremendous growth this year. Over 75% of students in grades five through twelve played at least one sport in 2023-24. The athletic department has seen a 27% increase in overall participation over the past five years. Collegiate's coaches have seized the chance offered by these increased participation numbers to increase and improve their impact. We celebrated multiple Coach of the Year honors at the Upper School level.

During the final week of classes, each senior presents their Capstone Project to audiences of students, teachers, alumni, and families. This year's presentations were particularly impressive, not only for their in-depth research and creative presentations but also for their clear demonstration that great education is not merely having good knowledge but being able to share that knowledge with others. Two weeks after classes ended, Collegiate began hosting the first Breakthrough Collaborative in Kentucky--an education enrichment program for Middle School students in cities across the country. Knowledge is best realized when it is shared. We are proud of how our school community has lived out this conviction over the 2023-24 school year.

Collegiate Celebrates the 62nd Kindergarten Derby

On May 2, students, parents, alumni, faculty, staff and friends gathered on the campus field to celebrate the 62nd running of the Kindergarten Derby. Lower School students participated in a "Pegasus Parade" dressed in decade attire to commemorate the 150th running of the Kentucky Derby. The grand marshal of the parade was former head of school Arnold Holtberg. Senior boys escorted the official Derby Festival Queen and her court around the track. Students cheered as the kindergarten jockeys competed in the race.

Congratulations to our kindergarten jockeys who ran in this year's Kindergarten Derby. It was a beautiful morning to gather as a community and celebrate one of Collegiate's most treasured traditions!

Congratulations to our winners:

Second Place - Damian Driggs '36 aboard Forever Young

Robotics Teams Compete at the FIRST World Championship

Congratulations to DELTA Robotics and COSMIC Cows for competing at the FIRST World Championships in Houston, Texas, April 17-20, 2024. The Upper School team, DELTA Robotics, competed for the third consecutive year, and the Middle School team, COSMIC Cows, competed for the second time. The FIRST® Championship is a four-day robotics championship held annually in April.

The Robotics Program at Collegiate begins in the Lower School, where students in the fourth grade build their first Lego robotic device and begin to learn how to program those devices. Middle School students expand their coding skills using functions and design their own Lego robots. In addition to fourth-, fifth-, and sixth-grade curricular work, they can participate in robotics clubs and competitive teams each year.

In the Upper School, students can enroll in the Honors Robotics course, a science elective that focuses on participation in the FIRST Tech Challenge robotics competition. This project-based course is open to students in grades 9-12, and students can participate for multiple years to maintain their place on the Upper School robotics team.

The DELTA Robotics team talks strategy at the FIRST World Championships.

Congratulations to our students and coaches, Sarah Weyrens, Greg Geis, Jon Coole, and Das Rooptai, for a great season and for representing Collegiate and Kentucky at the world championships!

Breakthrough Louisville calls Collegiate Home

Over the past five summers, Breakthrough Louisville (formerly Summerbridge Louisville) has found its home at Collegiate. On March 1, Summerbridge officially became the 25th affiliate of Breakthrough Collaborative. This move signifies a deepening of its commitment to educational equity and access to empowering experiences for students from traditionally underrepresented backgrounds across the country. Breakthrough Louisville is led by Executive Director Kate Lindsay.

Dr. Rob Macrae, head of school, has not only served on the Board of Trustees for Breakthrough Collaborative but was also instrumental in bringing Breakthrough Louisville to Collegiate. His leadership and vision have been pivotal in establishing this meaningful and deeply valuable partnership, allowing Collegiate to be a private school with a public purpose.

Collegiate faculty and alumni, including Sam Long, a Middle School teacher assisting Kate, Brianna Doggett '22, and Jonathan Pearson '24, have been making a profound difference as assistant teachers and mentors at Breakthrough Louisville. Jonathan Pearson said, "I wanted to teach at Breakthrough Louisville due to the transformative impact I could have on a student's life. Many children coming into Breakthrough Louisville are from lower-income housing and lack the resources for tutoring or extracurriculars to enhance their learning. Providing these kids with a stronger foundation to excel in the classroom made me eager to participate in Breakthrough Louisville."

The mission of Breakthrough Louisville is to prepare and support talented, under-resourced middle school students for greater academic success and increased confidence. The program emphasizes math, reading, writing, and critical thinking skills. Local students in Jefferson Country Public Schools apply to participate in the no-cost program.

Jonathan Pearson '24 and Brianna Doggett '22 are teaching at Breakthrough Louisville.

Dear Fellow Alumni,

I hope your summer is off to a great start. At Collegiate's 108th Commencement, we added 70 new alumni to our ranks! This was truly a remarkable class of students. I was in awe of their many accomplishments as we celebrated them at Commencement. I love the graduation tradition at Collegiate where each member of the class is honored with a review of their successes and well wishes for the future ahead of them – it's clear that at Collegiate every senior is a known, respected, and a contributing member of the community. Although the class of 2024's time as students at Collegiate has come to a close, we look forward to having them as active members of our alumni family.

The Alumni Association's board, made up of 20 graduating class years, has had a busy year and we are pleased to share some highlights:

- We continued to focus on professional networking by bringing in alumni to participate in Co-Edge courses and growing our activity in the Alumni LinkedIn Group.
- We encouraged alumni to stay connected by increasing support for class reunions and with the launch of the inaugural "Jingle and Mingle Reception" in December.
- We kept up the momentum for out-of-town alumni events, with D.C. in May and NYC in the works for late summer.

I'm thrilled to announce to the alumni community that you broke the record for giving to the Annual Fund by all measures! This year's overall dollar amount, number of donors, and alumni participation percentage (now at 17%) all hit new milestones. Thank you so much for giving back and for your continued commitment to ensuring Collegiate is the best place possible for its students.

Please mark your calendars for the new Alumni and Faculty Celebration Event on Friday, September 13, 2024, where we will have an opportunity to reconnect with fellow alumni and faculty members and celebrate winners of the annual Alumni Association Awards. I invite alumni from all years, current and former faculty to join us for this fun-filled event that will kick off Reunion Weekend.

I encourage you to get involved in any way you can and reach out if you have any ideas or events you would like to see happen. Thank you for another wonderful year!

With gratitude,

Mark Bowling '03

Alumni Association Announces its 2024 Alumni Award Winners & Athletic Hall of Fame Inductee

The annual Alumni Association Awards will be presented at the *NEW* Alumni and Faculty Celebration Event on the evening of Friday, September 13, 2024. Join us for a fun, free reception, dinner, and after-party to celebrate alumni achievements and reconnect with former classmates, colleagues, and teachers. This is a wonderful opportunity for alumni, current and former faculty and staff, board members, parents of alumni, and friends to catch up, network, and reminisce! Congratulations to the following award recipients.

Distinguished Alumni Award Dr. Angela Singla '89

Dr. Angela Singla embodies the spirit of service and advocacy that defines the essence of the LCS Distinguished Alumni Award. Dr. Singla, is an obstetrician/gynecologist in Louisville and her background demonstrates a steadfast commitment to improving healthcare access and promoting social justice, both professionally and philanthropically.

After graduating from Northwestern University and the University of Louisville School of Medicine, Dr. Singla received her academic and clinical training at Mount Sinai Medical Center in New York, where her clinical research was published in peer-reviewed journals. Her first job as a clinical instructor at Loyola University in Chicago won her a national award for resident teaching. She eventually moved back to Louisville, where she worked in private practice and served as Gratis Faculty for the University of Louisville. She was also an Executive Board Member and the Treasurer of a large multi-practice group for several years. Her pro bono work has included providing medical services internationally in Belize, and locally in the Smoketown neighborhood.

Dr. Singla then seamlessly transitioned to nonprofit work, serving as a Founding Board Member of Impact100 Louisville. Her tenure as the Grants Committee Co-Chair has propelled Impact100 Louisville to new heights by spearheading initiatives that prioritize trust-based philanthropy and amplify the impact of grassroots organizations. Dr. Singla's unwavering commitment to educational and healthcare equity is further evidenced by her leadership roles on the boards of Educational Justice and the American Civil Liberties Union of Kentucky where she worked to empower marginalized communities and foster inclusivity.

Dr. Singla believes that Collegiate played a pivotal role in instilling a lifelong commitment to learning, leadership, and community engagement. She credits the transformative relationships she forged with her teachers, the school's rigorous academic curriculum, and diverse extracurricular opportunities as the foundation for her future success and unwavering dedication to service.

Dr. Singla's daughter, Shanti Satran, graduated from Collegiate in 2022. During that time, Angela volunteered in many capacities as both a proud alumna and parent. She served on Collegiate's Board of Trustees, the LCS Alumni Association Board, and the LCS Parents Association, where she founded and became its first Equity Chair. She and her husband, Dr. Aaron Satran, were also leadership donors for Collegiate's Second Century Campaign. Her brother, Amit Singla '97, received the LCS Young Alumni Award in 2014.

ALUMNI NEWS

Because of her exceptional contributions to healthcare, social justice, education, and our community, Angela is a shining example of the transformative power of compassionate leadership and unwavering commitment to service. Angela's legacy of advocating for causes she cares deeply about and inspiring positive change in her community will undoubtedly leave a lasting impact, serving as a source of inspiration for future generations of Collegiate students.

Young Alumni Achievement Award Emily Hawkins Heyde '04

Emily Hawkins Heyde is the recipient of the Young Alumni Achievement Award for her exceptional contributions to the community as a restaurateur. Alongside her husband, Executive Chef Geoffrey Heyde, Emily co-owns Fork & Barrel and Morning Fork, two acclaimed dining establishments in Louisville.

Emily's journey in the restaurant industry began with her passion for special events, catering, and management. After gaining experience with various establishments, including Derby City Café, Clements Catering, Edible Arrangements, and Nothing Bundt Cakes, Emily co-founded Fork & Barrel in 2017, followed by Morning Fork in 2020.

In early 2022, Emily orchestrated the merger of Fork & Barrel and Morning Fork, consolidating the two concepts under one roof to enhance the dining experience for customers. This strategic move has allowed the restaurants to optimize their brands and expand their offerings, including wine and cocktail dinners and themed brunches and dinners.

Throughout her career, Emily has navigated the challenges of being a woman in a predominantly male-driven field with grace and resilience. She is passionate about empowering women in the industry and providing opportunities for female professionals to excel in leadership roles.

As a recipient of the Young Alumni Achievement Award, Emily exemplifies the Collegiate traits of character, confidence, imagination, and excellence through her contributions to the culinary landscape of Louisville and her commitment to serving the community. Her entrepreneurial spirit and dedication to excellence serve as an inspiration to fellow alumni and aspiring entrepreneurs alike.

Collegiate Service Award

Louisa Rietze Lewandowski '90

Louisa Rietze Lewandowski's exemplary service and dedication to Collegiate have left an indelible mark on our campus and beyond. Louisa's journey with Collegiate began in 1977 when she first stepped foot into the halls on Glenmary Avenue as a kindergarten Legacy. Over the years, her connection deepened, and her lifelong affiliation has seen her wear many hats, including dedicated student, engaged alumna, devoted parent to two Collegiate legacy graduates, Smith '21 and Eliza '24, long-term Alumni Board member and Treasurer, and enthusiastic volunteer. Her commitment to Collegiate has been unwavering, reflecting her profound belief in the school's values and the strength of her loyal Collegiate friendships.

One of Louisa's most notable achievements is her transformative stewardship of the Alumni Association Glenmary Shop. Initially a modest endeavor, she has cultivated it into a thriving and indispensable resource for the Collegiate community. Louisa's innovative approach, including soliciting student input and introducing personalized merchandise, enhanced the shop's profitability and cultivated stronger connections among its patrons. Her efforts extend beyond the storefront, as she dedicates countless hours to ensuring the success of back-to-school sales and pioneering pop-up shops at significant events, all while balancing a full-time job.

Louisa continues to serve as a compelling spokesperson for the school as she encourages families who may not have considered the school before to take a closer look and discover the opportunities it offers. Louisa's authentic and enthusiastic endorsement makes her a trusted ambassador for Collegiate, inspiring others to explore the possibilities it provides for their children.

Louisa's impact transcends campus boundaries as she volunteers within the broader community. She is very involved in Impact100 Louisville, serving on the Sponsorship Committee and recruiting and supporting the Membership Committee. Whether rallying support for children's sports programs, championing school fundraisers, or welcoming new and prospective families with a smile and a sweatshirt, she embodies the ethos of selfless service. Her dedication to and enthusiasm for Collegiate make her a true asset to the institution.

Athletic Hall of Fame Inductee Alexander “Sandy” Taft

Alexander “Sandy” Taft, revered coach of the Amazon Crew team at Louisville Collegiate School, is posthumously honored as the newest inductee to the Collegiate Athletic Hall of Fame. Sandy’s legacy as a transformative figure within the Collegiate athletic community is unparalleled. His dedication to the sport of rowing and unwavering commitment to his athletes left an indelible mark on generations of students, shaping their character, instilling values of teamwork, and fostering a deep sense of camaraderie.

Sandy’s impact extended far beyond the confines of the boathouse. He served as a passionate ambassador for Collegiate rowing within the broader rowing community. His tireless advocacy and promotion of the sport not only elevated the profile of the Collegiate rowing program but also provided invaluable opportunities for student-athletes to excel and develop new interests and passions. Sandy’s profound dedication to his team was evident in every aspect of his coaching, from the early morning practices to the countless hours spent nurturing individual talent and fostering a culture of excellence.

When the varsity boat visited him in hospice, Coach Taft gently chastised one rower for using the past tense when she said she was glad that she “had” him as a coach. He told her, “I will always be your coach.” Indeed, this sentiment rings true for every athlete he mentored and supported throughout his tenure, spanning numerous years.

As a coach, mentor, and friend, Sandy Taft’s influence transcended the sport of rowing, leaving an enduring legacy of resilience, determination, and sportsmanship. His commitment to his athletes, even in the face of adversity, exemplifies the true spirit of Collegiate Athletics and serves as an inspiration to all who had the privilege of knowing him.

Alumni Association Welcomes the Class of 2024

The class of 2024 was officially welcomed into the Louisville Collegiate School Alumni Association at the annual Alumni Induction Lunch. While the seniors filled their plates with a delicious River Road BBQ lunch provided by Krissy Davis '95, they watched a slideshow of pictures from the "Memory Walks" they went on as part of their Alumni Co-Edge Class. The slideshow featured pictures around campus that captured their favorite people, places, and things.

The Alumni Association Board President, Mark Bowling '03, shared words of wisdom for the seniors, and Catherine Gatewood Easley '02 went over the different ways they can get involved with Collegiate in their new role as alumni.

The seniors also enjoyed watching a video where each senior answered questions like "What was your favorite school lunch?" and "What will you miss most about LCS?"

It was great to give the class of 2024 their first Alumni t-shirt and a gift from the Alumni Association while reminding them that their time here does not end at graduation!
